The 1st Annual Walter Rodney Speaker’s Series
January - May, 2013
Thursdays, 5-7pm at the Atlanta University Center Robert W. Woodruff Library

OVERVIEW

Professor Jesse Benjamin, with generous base-support from a Georgia Humanities Council Grant, the AUC Robert W. Woodruff Library, the Walter Rodney Foundation, Kennesaw State University, and Clark Atlanta University, established a (now annual) public lecture series that explores the life and work of Dr. Walter Rodney and his core contributions to Pan-Africanism, development theory, emancipatory pedagogy, and theories of race and class in the Caribbean, Africa and the rest of the world. This project seeks to keep Dr. Rodney’s scholarship, perspectives and memory alive; to introduce or re-introduce a cross-section of the Georgia public to this great man; and to explore how his legacy remains relevant to the issues, struggles, and theories of the present day.

The concept was respectfully and “flagrantly” copied from the innovative pedagogic example of the late Dr. Vincent Harding (a former comrade of Dr. Rodney), who conducted a groundbreaking public lecture series and associated Morehouse College class around the life and work of Martin Luther King in 2012. Like that inspirational series, also held at the AUC’s Robert W. Woodruff Library, the Walter Rodney Speakers Series combines a weekly public lecture or discussion panel with a cohort of Atlanta University Center and Kennesaw State University students who attend for college credit, do assigned readings, and stay for at least an extra hour of discussion and analysis. This emerging praxis seeks to emulate the models of Rodney and Harding in its delivery, while combining community members, high school students, college and graduate students, and senior scholars in complex dialogue about urgent contemporary social issues and theories.

STUDENT RESPONSE

“The experiences granted to me through this class were remarkable and have shaped my perspective as a student and now activist immensely. From the first day driving down to the Woodruff to getting to meet interesting people and professors from around the globe who were passionate about what they were sharing with us, the whole experience of this class was unforgettable.”

- Madyson Price, first year student at KSU
