SOLINET AND THE HBCU LIBRARY ALLIANCE PUBLISH THE STATE OF LIBRARIES AT HISTORICALLY BLACK COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

The Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET) and the HBCU Library Alliance recently completed and published an assessment of the state of libraries at Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). Produced with support from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science, The State of Libraries at Historically Black Colleges and Universities uses data collected by the National Center for Education Statistics through its biennial Academic Libraries Survey.

The statistical study describes levels of support for and services from HBCU libraries and compares it to that for other, peer academic libraries in the U.S. It offers a baseline for future comparison among HBCUs and of HBCUs with non-HBCUs. It also provides data that can be used to strengthen libraries at HBCUs, individually and as a group. The report is available on SOLINET's website at www.solinet.net/resources/HBCUStats and on the HBCU Library Alliance website at www.hbculibraries.org.

Created by the deans and directors of HBCU libraries in 2002, the HBCU Library Alliance is a consortium that supports the collaboration of information professionals dedicated to strengthening Historically Black Colleges and Universities and their constituents. The purpose of the HBCU Library Alliance is to ensure excellence in HBCU libraries through the development, collaboration, coordination, and promotion of programs and activities to enhance members' collections and services. ASERL VIRTUAL REFERENCE EXPANDS SERVICE SPONSORS IPOD GIVEAWAY

The Association of Southeastern Research Libraries (ASERL) finalized a new partnership with the University of Alabama's School of Library and Information Studies to provide additional service hours for its groundbreaking regional virtual reference service, "Ask a Librarian." Students from UA-SLIS will now supplement the chat service coverage provided by reference staff at ASERL libraries into the late-night hours.

To mark the expanded service, ASERL will give away a 1MB iPod Shuffle to one user of the online reference service at each participating ASERL institution.

Beginning February 6, the service will be open until midnight (ET) seven days a week. "This is an exciting time for us," commented John Burger, ASERL's Executive Director. "We have been seeking a cost-effective way to meet our patrons' reference needs later into the evenings. Working with future librarians is a great way to provide the additional service, and to forge new relationships with our colleagues of tomorrow, too." The "Ask a Librarian" service is open to affiliated users of the participating libraries via each library's home page.

The iPod giveaway will run during the month of February. Users affiliated with the participating universities will be eligible to win one iPod per campus. To enter, a user simply needs to log into the system via their library's home page and chat with the librarian as usual. Winners will be selected via a random drawing in early March. ASERL reserves the right to verify the winners' affiliation with the participating university before prizes are awarded. All official rules are available at www.aserl.org

ASERL libraries participating in the "Ask a Librarian" service are the College of William & Mary, Florida State University, Mississippi State University, the University of Alabama, the University of Central Florida, the University of Memphis, the University of Mississippi, UNC Charlotte, and Virginia Commonwealth University.

Founded in 1956, ASERL is the largest regional academic library cooperative in the country, with 37 research libraries and six state libraries. ASERL was a founding member of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), the largest OCLC regional network in the U.S. Launched in 2004, ASERL's "Ask a Librarian" project is the first regionally-staff chat-based reference service dedicated to the needs of research library patrons.
