Vorrei spiegarvi, o Dio!
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Mozart has been regarded as, “the most universal composer in the history of western music” due to his incredible ability in his short thirty five years to compose for every musical medium of his time. He began studying music at age three, and his compositions began to flow at the age of five. Throughout his life, Mozart worked by teaching, composing, performing concerts and writing music for publications. Mozart’s fame spread greatly, even to the accolade of emperor Joseph II, who dubbed him his “chamber composer.” Some of his great vocal works include Die Zauberflöte (The Magic Flute), Le Nozze di Figaro, Don Giovanni, and Requiem. His concertos, symphonies, sonatas, and operas have undoubtedly shaped the classical music we know and love today. The aria Vorrei spiegarvi, oh Dio! was placed into the first act of the Don Quixote based opera, Il curioso indiscreto by Pasquale Anfossi. Clorinda pleads with Count Ripaverde to end his romantic advances and pursue the beautiful Emilia, of who he is betrothed.

In Liebeslust
Franz Liszt

Die Lorelei

Comment, disaient-ils

Oh, quand je dors

Franz Liszt was arguably the greatest pianist of all time, because of which he founded the solo piano recital, and forever altered 19th century Romanticism. For the greater part of his life, he traveled throughout Europe premiering his work and supporting charities and humanitarian causes. Liszt even became a benefactor for other composers such as Berlioz, Wagner, Saint-Saens and Grieg. His compositions include piano music, transcriptions, organ music, melodrama, program music symphonic poems and vocal works. Hoffmann von Fallersleben (1798-1874) penned the poetry of In Liebeslust, and Heinrich Heine (1797-1856) wrote the poetry of Die Lorelei. The text of both French pieces on this recital came from the mind of one of Liszt’s close friends, Victor Hugo, who you may recognize as also the author of the well-known novel Les Miserables.
Les contes d'Hoffman  | Jacques Offenbach
from Les oiseaux dans la charmille

A French composer of German birth, Jacques Offenbach most importantly impacted the nineteenth century with his compositions of over one hundred operettas. Towards the end of his life in 1878, Offenbach chose to try his hand at composing an opera, Les contes d'Hoffmann. With the aid of librettist Jules Barbier, he spent almost two years composing a unique piece of art based on the stories of the renowned German composer and writer, E.T.A. Hoffmann. The opera has both a prologue and an epilogue, as well as three distinct acts in between. In Act 1, Hoffman buys magic glasses from Coppelius, one of the creators of the humanistic mechanical doll Olympia. These magical glasses cause Hoffman to believe that he is seeing a real and perfect woman! She sings the aria Les oiseaux dans la charmille, and he instantly falls in love with her.

Three Browning Songs  | Amy Beach

I. The Year's at the Spring
II. Ah, Love, but a Day!
III. I Send My Heart Up to Thee

The first American woman to succeed as a composer of large-scale musical art was Amy Beach. She taught herself to read at three years of age, began composing piano pieces at the age of four, and gave her first public recital at the age of seven. At eighteen years of age she married a Harvard professor, Dr. Henry Beach, who restricted her public performances to annual recitals. As a result she published numerous works such as the Mass, Symphony Op. 32, piano concertos and quintets, string quartets, choral music and art songs. Her compositional style included the use of chromaticism, modulations by thirds, and she often avoided the use of the dominant. Her set entitled, Three Browning Songs, Op. 44, is perhaps her most well known work. She set the beautiful music to poetry by Robert Browning, greatly increasing his fame in that time. You will also hear the influence of her faith in God throughout the songs.

Bravour Variations on a Theme of Mozart

Ah, vous dirai-je maman  | Adolph Charles Adam

Adolph Adam was a French composer, music critic and noted teacher of Leo Delibes. He was born in Paris and was a well-respected professor at the Paris Conservatory. His very famous Christmas carol, Cantique de Noël, also known as Oh Holy Night, is an international favorite. In Adam’s whimsical Ah, vous dirai-je maman written for coloratura soprano, flute and piano, melismatic passages and soaring cadenzas are on display throughout the composition. This piece is based upon Mozart’s well-known melody, Twinkle, twinkle, little star.
