on Themes of Carl Maria von Weber (1943/2013)

   I. Allegro
   II. Scherzo
   III. Andantino
   IV. Marsch
Paul Dooley’s music has been described as “impressive and beautiful” by American composer, Steve Reich. Mr. Dooley’s path has embraced not only his Western Classical heritage, but also a cross-cultural ranger of contemporary music, dance, art, technology and the interactions between the human and natural worlds. Paul Dooley studied composition with Michael Daugherty, Bright Sheng and Evan Chambers and earned degrees in composition at the University of Southern California.

Paul Dooley received a wide range of prizes for his works, including the 2013 Jacob Druckman Award for orchestral composition, a 2010 BMI Composer Award for Gradus (2009) for solo cello, a 2008 ASCAP Morton Gould Young Composers Award for Dani’s Dance (2007). In addition, he was awarded a fellowship at the Aspen Music Festival Composition Masterclass with Christopher Rouse, and a Regents fellowship to the University of Michigan.

The composer writes:

(Point Blank) for wind ensemble is inspired by electronic music, in particular a style called Drum and Bass. I explore the interaction between computer generated musical material and the human performer. For the wind ensemble’s percussion battery, I transcribe tightly interlocking electronic rhythmic material. The drum set, mallets and timpani whirl the ensemble through an array of electronically inspired orchestrations, while the winds and brass shriek for dear life!

Elegy for a Young American
RONALD LO PRESTI (1933-1985)

Ronald Lo Presti is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and a former Ford Foundation composer-in-residence. He taught at Texas Technical University, Indiana State College (Pennsylvania) and at Arizona State University.

(Elegy for a Young American) was written in 1964 and is dedicated to the memory of President John F. Kennedy. Except for a ten-measure allegro near the end, the tempo of the entire wok is a slow adagio. A simple scalar motif in the opening clarinet develops throughout the elegy, giving the listener a full musical experience of pain, grief and loss. The ending chimes leave us with a sense of peace.

Petite Symphonie
CHARLES GOUNOD (1818-1893)

The French composer, Charles-François Gounod, was the son of a pianist mother and a draftsman father. His mother was his first piano teacher. Under her tutelage Gounod first showed his musical talents. He entered the Paris Conservatoire where he studied under Fromental Halévy. He won the Prix de Rome in 1839 for his cantata Ferdinand. He subsequently went to Italy where he studied the music of Giovanni Palestrina. He concentrated on religious music of the 16th century.

Charles Gounod eventually returned to Paris and composed the Messe Sollenelle, also known as the Saint Cecilia Mass. This work was first performed in London during 1851 and began his reputation as a noteworthy composer.

Gounod wrote his first opera in 1851, but had no great success until Faust (1859), based on the play by Goethe. This remains his best known work, although the opera Romeo and Juliet based on the Shakespeare play, premiered in 1867, is also performed and recorded regularly.

Petite Symphonie, or the "Little Symphony for Winds," was composed in 1885. Gounod's friend and flute professor at the Paris Conservatoire, Paul Taffanel, commissioned him to write a chamber piece for winds. Its instrumentation of a wind octet, with an added flute part in honor of Taffanel, is modeled after Mozart's wind serenades.

This complete miniature symphony is elegant, delicate, and sweet. The first movement uses a slow introduction, like that of Haydn, and an Allegretto in sonata form. The second movement features the added flute part. The scherzo that follows is based on a hunting theme, with a lively finale in the fourth movement to end the symphony.

Like many French instrumental works of the late Romantic era, Petite Symphonie is anti-Wagnerian in its simplicity and its conservative form. In four movements, the work follows the form of a standard symphony. Themes are regular in structure, follow traditional harmonic expectations, and contrast in character. This work is playable by fine high school and collegiate musicians, although younger groups may opt to perform select movements. This is an excellent piece for teaching style and interpretation. As solos are passed around the group, players must listen across the ensemble to perform in a stylistically cohesive manner. This delightful piece could serve as a refreshing contribution to a standard band concert.

Symphonic Metamorphosis

on Themes by Carl Maria von Weber

PAUL HINDEMITH

(1895-1965)

transcribed by Jaclyn Hartenberger

Born in Frankfurt, Germany, Hindemith studied conducting, composing, and violin with Arnold Mendelsohn and Bernhard Sekles at the Hoch Conservatory, supporting himself by playing in dance bands and musical-comedy troupes. From 1915 until 1923 he was the concertmaster of the Frankfurt Opera Orchestra, and in 1929 he founded the Amar Quartet, playing viola.

He was instrumental in organizing the Donaueschingen Festival, a new music festival that takes place every October in the small German town. The Donaueschingen Festival is the oldest festival for new music in the world. In the fifth year of the festival, Hindemith commissioned composers to write new works for winds, resulting in several ground-breaking compositions (amongst them Hindemith's own Konzertmusik fur Blasorchester, Opus 41, Křenek's Drei Lustige Märsche, and Toch's Spiel.)
Hindemith immigrated to the United States from Germany in 1940 and held teaching positions at Harvard and Yale Universities, becoming an American citizen in 1946. After World War II Hindemith relocated to Europe, taking a position at the University of Zurich.

Symphonic Metamorphosis was premiered by the New York Philharmonic on January 20th, 1944, Artur Rodzinski conducting. It has since become one of Hindemith's more popular and enduring works. It was inspired in part by Choreographer and Dancer Léonide Massine, who suggested to Hindemith that he compose a ballet based on Weber's music. However, after watching one of Massine's ballets and discovering that Massine intended to use sets and costumes designed by Salvador Dali (an artist whom Hindemith disliked), Hindemith decided to part ways with Massine, and the project was dropped. A few years later, Hindemith decided to salvage the music and write a set of variations or metamorphoses instead.

The suite is in four movements:

I. Allegro
A confident and aggressive march with East European flavor. This movement is based on Weber’s Huit Pièces pour le pianoforte à 4 mains (Op.60), No.4, composed in 1818.

II. Turandot, Scherzo
A whimsical and delicate movement with a distinct oriental flavor. The theme is based on the overture to Weber's Turandot (which is itself based on an original Chinese song). The middle section features the brass, woodwind, and percussion sections in turn.

III. Andantino
This slow movement is based on Weber's Six Pièces pour le pianoforte à quatre mains (Op.10), No 2, composed in 1809. The movement closes with an elaborate bit of counterpoint for the flute, which has been said to resemble bird song.

IV. Marsch
Possibly the best known movement, it opens with a set of fanfares. Like the first movement, this one is also based on Huit Pièces pour le pianoforte à 4 mains, this time focusing on No.7. The original theme was meant to be a funeral march; Hindemith doubles the tempo to give the previously morbid tune a jaunty, catchy feel.

David Kehler, has served since 2009 as Director of Bands at Kennesaw State University where he oversees all aspects of the University’s band program and serving as Music Director and Conductor of the KSU Wind Ensemble. An advocate of new music, Professor Kehler has commissioned leading composers to write new works for wind ensemble, including Michael Markowski, Joel Puckett, James Stephenson, Christopher Theofenidis and an upcoming commission by Pulitzer Prize winner, Joseph Schwantner. In addition, the KSU Wind Ensemble has been featured on 90.1 FM (WABE- Atlanta public radio), and continues to garner praise from composers including Steven Bryant, Karel Husa, David Lang, David Maslanka, Scott McAllister, and Joel Puckett. In 2012, the KSU Wind Ensemble was a featured ensemble and hosted the Southern Division College Band Directors /National Band Association Conference and in 2013, was the winner of the 2013 American Prize for best Wind Ensemble/Concert Band performance. In addition to his ensemble responsibilities, Dr. Kehler teaches courses in instrumental conducting, wind literature and symphonic repertoire.

Previously, David Kehler served The University of Texas at Austin as a Graduate Conducting Associate receiving a Doctor of Musical Arts degree. From 2001-2009, Dr. Kehler served as Associate Conductor of America’s Premier Windband; The Dallas Wind Symphony where he was the director of the Dallas Wind Symphony International Fanfare Project. While in Texas, Dr. Kehler was also Founder and Conductor of the GDYO Wind Symphony, an ensemble affiliated with the Greater Dallas Youth Orchestras, Inc. During his ten years of service, the GDYO Wind Symphony established itself as one of the premier youth wind ensembles in the United States. They were a featured ensemble at the Texas Bandmasters Association/National Band Association Convention in San Antonio, Texas, and were heard internationally on “From the Top”, a syndicated radio program featuring the finest young classical musicians in the country. In addition, the GDYO Wind Symphony participated in exchange concerts with the Atlanta Youth Wind Symphony and performed with Jeff Nelson, former horn of the Canadian Brass. In the summer of 2008, the GDYO Wind Symphony embarked on an extensive two-week tour of China, performing at all of the major music conservatories throughout China and Hong Kong.

Previous university appointments were at Southern Methodist University, the University of Rhode Island, and Bay City Western High School, in Bay City, Michigan.
