CRL:

Center for Research Libraries

KSU recently became a member of the Center for Research Libraries, an international consortium providing primary and rare research materials.

CRL holdings are strong in international newspapers, dissertations, and scholarly materials and support research in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Much of the material acquired is from five “emerging” regions of the world: Africa, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, South Asia, and Latin America.

KSU researchers have access to these source materials through interlibrary loan and electronic delivery. Ask-a-Librarian!

We want to hear from you, again! Complete the library survey, March 11 – April 12 for your chance to win a FREE iPad or iPad mini. Based on your feedback from the 2011 survey, Sturgis Library has:

- ◆ Renovated the third floor
- ◆ Added group study spaces
- ◆ Developed OwlSpace
- ◆ Added more PCs, Macs, and laptops

Be on the lookout for the library survey following spring break. Your voice matters. Let us know what you think!

Libraries and museums are the DNA of our culture.
