AN INVITATION

Georgia enjoys a rich and proud history. Those who seek to understand the state's development, or to trace their family roots deeper into the American past are many. Yet, neither the most ambitious researcher nor the best informed resource person knows the full extent of the state's documentary heritage. GEORGIA ARCHIVE undertakes to provide that knowledge. The magazine will publish descriptions of archival and historical manuscripts collections in the state and of Georgia holdings in depositories outside the state. Special articles will focus on particularly significant collections. Moreover, to serve Georgia's growing community of archivists and, at the same time, to enhance the users' understanding of archivology, GEORGIA ARCHIVE will contain pieces about archival administration and developments on the archival scene.

GEORGIA ARCHIVE is published by the Society of Georgia Archivists to serve all who work with Georgia's archival resources. Everyone concerned to promote the knowledge, understanding, and use of our documentary heritage is invited to join in our endeavor.
