CALL FOR MANUSCRIPTS

College & Undergraduate Libraries, a peer-reviewed journal published by The Haworth Press, Inc., welcomes the submission of manuscripts.

Aiming to provide practical, informative articles addressing undergraduate services, operations, and concerns or issues of interest to busy college and undergraduate library staff, the journal welcomes manuscripts from all staff members as well as faculty and students. Current topics of particular interest include assessment/standards, organizational configuration, information literacy, the library as place, electronic reference, digitization of resources, intellectual property issues, plagiarism, and the roles of the library within the college or university.

Submission information is available at: <http://www.haworthpress.com/journals/SIresults.asp?sku=j106>. All manuscripts or proposals should be sent directly to the editor, Christopher Millson-Martula of Lynchburg College at millsonmartula@lynchburg.edu. Telephone contact is at 434/544-8399. In addition, the journal regularly publishes columns dealing with humor in the library, instructional issues, and the roles of the Internet and Web-based resources in college and undergraduate libraries. Opinion pieces addressing issues of current interest are also welcome. For additional information, please contact the editor.

SOLINET, AMIGOS, NELINET, NYLINK, AND PALINET LAUNCH THE NETWORK EDUCATION EXCHANGE

SOLINET, Amigos Library Services, Inc., NELINET, Nylink, and PALINET announce the launch of the Network Education Exchange, a cooperative training program that makes selected online courses available to the members of the five networks. The purpose of this new exchange program is to provide their memberships with expanded opportunities to develop skills and knowledge via online training and to provide more cost-effective services by leveraging time and resources among the networks' staff.

The five networks have agreed to provide member pricing to one another's members for selected online training programs. Students are expected to register directly with the providing network and are required to pay by credit card. The selected courses and descriptions are available on the five networks' Web sites.

"I'm thrilled that our members are able to participate in this important new online training initiative," said Susan Abell, Marketing Director, NELINET, Inc. "The Network Education Exchange is an effective way for each network to offer their members a wider range of program topics and ideas without the added costs associated with developing new programs."

Cal Shepard, Manager of SOLINET's Educational Services, concurred. "This is a huge benefit to all of our members, and it's a powerful example of the rewards of coordinating and sharing our resources. We all win!"

"As the networks have dedicated many resources to developing distance-learning programs, the Network Education Exchange is a perfect way for us to maximize those efforts to benefit all of our members," added Diana Bitting, Manager of the PALINET Educational Program.
