Dear Friends,

On behalf of everyone at Kennesaw State University, we are excited to welcome you to the 2014 Kennesaw State Festival of New Music, our third festival honoring the music of our time.

Rules, as the saying goes, were meant to be broken. There are artists who discard the idea of traditional boundaries and instead choose to explore the sounds that move them, often through embracing innovative ideas that blend together varied musical or cultural traditions. As the world of music continues to evolve, artists continually find new ways for their voices to be heard amidst the growing landscape. The 2014 KSFNM proudly presents an impressive slate of exceptional artists, whose creative approaches to music making boldly lead us into new territory.

The KSFNM musicians challenge artistic boundaries in their work, as displayed in Chen Yi's blending of traditional Chinese folk culture with western music, Maria Schneider's exploration of the relationships between jazz and avant-garde concert hall genres, and Simone Dinnerstein and Tift Merritt's melding of their respective classical and pop aesthetics. In addition to these guest artists, the week's performances will highlight our talented students and faculty, including violinist Helen Kim who will perform the world premiere of Chinese Rap, a violin concertino composed by Chen Yi and commissioned by the KSU School of Music with the support of our partners in the Confucius Institute.

A festival of this kind creates an interesting opportunity to explore how music impacts other areas of our lives. To that end, we have developed class visits, lectures, master classes, and other residency activities in partnership with our colleagues in the Gender and Women's Studies program, Asian Studies, American Studies, and the Music and Entertainment Business Program. These residency activities expose our students and community to new, developing trends in the art form, and provide special access to the artists in an educational setting. Additionally, our music students gain the invaluable experience of interacting first hand with world-class artists.

Over a five-day period, we will present four concerts, thirteen residency activities, and one world premiere. We are delighted to give this music an audience, and hope you enjoy the opportunity to participate in this unique event. Thank you for joining us for this celebration as we explore music that challenges definition and breaks barriers.

A Set of Chinese Folk Songs

Fengyang Song (Anhui Folk Song)

Gongs and drums are in my hands,
I am singing a song while playing drums and gongs.
Other songs I don’t know how to sing,
I can only sing a Fengyang song.

The Flowing Stream (Yunnan Love Song)

The rising moon is bright,
my sweetheart is in the deep mountain,
he is like the moon walking in the sky.
My sweetheart!
The flowing stream around the mountain is clear aside.
The moon is shining over the hillside,
looking at the moon and thinking of my sweetheart,
the breezes are sweeping past the hillside.
My sweetheart!
Don’t you hear I cry?

Diu Diu Deng (Taiwan Folk Song)

Going up to the tunnel in the mountain,
the water in the cave is dropping down.
Going up to the tea mountain,
enjoy looking at the tea-picking girls.

This song is very popular in the Yilan region of Taiwan, where transportation and communication were difficult. When the railway reached this region, the people sang this lively song in celebration while riding the trains through the area’s beautiful mountains and valleys. The words “Diu Diu Deng” are nonsense syllables.

Jai Ho!

Aaja aaja jind shamiyaane ke tale
Aaja zari waale neele aasmaane ke tale
Ratti ratti sachchi maine jaan gawayi hai
Nach Nach koylon pe raat bitaayi hai
Come, come my Life, under the canopy.
Come under the blue brocade sky!
Iota by iota, I have lost my life. In faith
I’ve passed this night dancing on coals;
Ankhiyon ki neend maine phoonkon se
I blew away the sleep that was in my udaa di
eyes;
Gin gin taarey maine ungli jalayi hai
I counted the stars ‘til my finger burned.
Baila! Baila!
Dance! Dance!
Ahora conmigo, tu baila para hoy
Now with me, you dance for today,
Por nuestro dia de movidas,
for our day of movements.

Salud! Baila! Baila
Cheers! Dance! Dance!

Taste it, taste it. This night is honey!

Taste it, and keep it; it’s a heart at its
Chakh le, haan rakh le, Dil hai, dil

The Music of Maria Schneider

About Maria Schneider

Maria Schneider’s music has been hailed by critics as “evocative, majestic, magical, heart-stoppingly gorgeous, and beyond categorization.” She and her orchestra became widely known starting in 1994 when they released their first recording, ‘Evanescence.’ With that recording, Schneider began to develop her personal way of writing for her 17-member collective, made up of many of the finest musicians in jazz today, tailoring her compositions to distinctly highlight the uniquely creative voices of the group. Subsequently, the Maria Schneider Orchestra has performed at festivals and concert halls worldwide. She herself has received numerous commissions and guest conducting invites, working with over 85 groups from over 30 countries spanning Europe, South America, Australia, Asia and North America.

Schneider’s music blurs the lines between genres, and as a result, her long list of commissioners have become quite varied: the Norrbotten Big Band and Danish Radio Orchestra with Toots Thielemans and Ivan Lins, the Metropole Orchestra in the Netherlands, Carnegie Hall Jazz Orchestra (El Viento), Monterey Jazz Festival (Scenes from Childhood), The American Dance Festival (for dance company, Pilobolus - Dissolution), University of Miami Concert Jazz Band (Three Romances), Hunter College (Concert in the Garden, Sky Blue), Jazz at Lincoln Center (Buleria, Soleá y Rumba), Los Angeles Philharmonic Association (Aires de Lando), Peter Sellars’ New Crowned Hope Festival (Vienna’s Mozart Festival–Cerulean Skies), Kronos Quartet (String Quartet No. 1), The Saint Paul Chamber Orchestra with soprano, Dawn Upshaw (Carlos Drummond de Andrade Stories) and most recently, the Ojai Festival, the Australian Chamber Orchestra and Cal Performances (Winter Morning Walks), featuring soprano, Dawn Upshaw, and three musicians long associated with Schneider: pianist, Frank Kimbrough, bassist, Jay Anderson, and multi-instrumentalist, Scott Robinson.

Schneider and her orchestra have a distinguished recording career with nine GRAMMY nominations and two GRAMMY awards. Unique funding of projects has become a hallmark for Schneider through the trend-setting company, ArtistShare®. For these projects, she documents her creative process for participating fans, who "fan-fund" her recordings through pre-orders. She's now composed four works for her own orchestra with the participation of commissioners coming directly from her ArtistShare® website fan base. Her album, Concert in the Garden (2004) became historic as the first recording to win a GRAMMY with Internet-only sales. Even more significantly, it blazed the "fan-funding" trail as ArtistShare’s® first release. Her albums, Concert in the Garden and Sky Blue were both named “Jazz Album of the Year” by the Jazz Journalists Association and DOWNBEAT Critics Poll, and received wide critical acclaim.

In 2012, her alma mater, the University of Minnesota, awarded Schneider an honorary doctorate.

“Maria Schneider’s orchestral jazz is about feeling. Like Wayne Shorter, she somehow expresses compassion through tones.” –THE NEW YORK TIMES

“To call Schneider the most important woman in jazz is missing the point. She is a major composer—period.” –TIME MAGAZINE

About NIGHT

Pianist Simone Dinnerstein and singer-songwriter Tift Merritt join forces in NIGHT, a unique collaboration uniting folk, rock and classical worlds, exploring common terrain and uncovering new musical landscapes. Though Simone (a Juilliard-trained classical pianist from Brooklyn) and Tift (a singer-songwriter from North Carolina whose father taught her to play by ear) could not come from more different musical backgrounds, when the two met they immediately realized that their passion for music was kindred, if not the same. Night features new songs by Brad Mehldau and Patty Griffin, Tift’s own songs, selections by Bach and Schubert, and The Cohen Variations by Daniel Felsenfeld, based on Leonard Cohen’s Suzanne. Tift and Simone’s studio recording of Night was released on Sony on March 19, 2013.

Simone Dinnerstein, piano

Simone Dinnerstein, American pianist, is a searching and inventive artist motivated by a desire to find the musical core of every work she approaches. The Independent praises the “majestic originality of her vision” and NPR reports, “She compels the listener to follow her in a journey of discovery filled with unscheduled detours.” The New York-based pianist gained an international following because of the remarkable success of her recording of Bach’s Goldberg Variations, which she raised the funds to record. Released in 2007, it ranked No. 1 on the U.S. Billboard Classical Chart in its first week of sales and was named to many “Best of” lists including those of The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, and The New Yorker. The three albums she has released since then – The Berlin Concert, Bach: A Strange Beauty, and Something Almost Being Said – have also topped the classical charts, with Bach: A Strange Beauty making the Billboard Top 200, which compiles the entire music industry’s sales of albums in all genres. Dinnerstein was the bestselling instrumentalist of 2011 on the U.S. Billboard Classical Chart.

Her performance schedule has taken her around the world since her triumphant New York recital debut at Carnegie Hall’s Weill Recital Hall in 2005, to major venues including the Kennedy Center, Vienna Konzerthaus, Berlin Philharmonie, Lincoln Center, and London’s Wigmore Hall, among many others. She has been a soloist with leading orchestras including the New York Philharmonic, Tokyo Symphony, Vienna Symphony, and more. Dinnerstein has also played concerts throughout the country for the Piatigorsky Foundation, an organization dedicated to bringing classical music to non-traditional venues, and performed at the Maryland Correctional Institution for Women in a concert organized by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra to coincide with her BSO debut. Dedicated to her community, in 2009 Dinnerstein founded Neighborhood Classics, a concert series that raises funds for and is hosted by New York City public schools.

Tift Merritt, guitar and vocals

Tift Merritt, who The New Yorker has called “the bearer of a proud tradition of distaff country soul that reaches back to artists like Dusty Springfield and Bobbie Gentry,” a standard upholding that got underway in earnest with Bramble Rose, the 2002 solo debut that put her on the Americana map forever. As her sophomore album, Tambourine, was followed by Another Country and See You on the Moon, Merritt found acclaim coming not just from critics and awards organizations but her own heroes, like Emmylou Harris, who marveled that Merritt “stood out like a diamond in a coal patch.” Now a leading lady in her own right, Merritt is hardly one to hog the spotlight. She engages in dialogue with fellow artists of all disciplines on her public radio broadcast and podcast “The Spark With Tift Merritt,” bringing in fellow sojourners ranging from Patty Griffin and Rosanne Cash to Rick Moody and Nick Hornby (who devoted a chapter to Merritt in his 31 Songs book). Of her latest album, Traveling Alone, released by Yep Roc in October 2012, USA Today raves, “Steel-laced country-soul only hints at the sublime charms of Merritt’s Traveling Alone,” and Paste writes, “Traveling Alone . . . not only shows her true lyrical and vocal range, but suggests an adventurous spirit beneath the placid surface.”
