Reconciliation

Doug Lindsey, flugelhorn

Word over all,
Beautiful as the sky,
Beautiful that war and all its deeds of carnage
must in time be utterly lost,
That the hands of the sisters sisters Death and Night softly wash again, and ever again,
this soiled world;

For my enemy is dead;
A man divine as myself is dead,
I look where he lies
White faced and still in the coffin
I draw near, and bend down and touch lightly with my lips the white face in the coffin.

MARK TEMPLETON (b. 1974)

When I Hear Her I Have Wings

Many a flower have I seen blossom,
Many a bird for me will sing.
Never saw I so sweet a singer,
Never heard I so fair a thing.

She is a bird, a bird that blossoms.
She is a flower, a flower that sings;
And I a flower when I beheld her,
And when I hear her I have wings.

(Gibberish by Mary Elizabeth Coleridge, 1861-1907)

arr. Michael Engelhardt (b. 1974)

Be Thou My Vision*

Joshua Little, bass guitar

Cameron Austin, Levi Lyman, and Kyle Prigden, percussion

Be thou my vision, O Lord of my heart; naught be all else to me save that thou art.
Thou my best thought, by day or by night, waking or sleeping, thy presence my light.

Be thou my wisdom, and thou my true word; I ever with thee and thou with me, Lord;
Thou my great Father and I thy true son, thou in me dwelling and I with thee one.

Be thou my battle shield, sword for the fight, be thou my dignity, thou my delight,
Thou my soul's shelter, thou my high tower, raise thou me heavenward, O power of my power.

High King of heaven, my victory won, may I reach heaven's joys, O bright heaven's Sun!
Heart of my own heart, whatever befall, still be my vision, O Ruler of all!
(traditional ancient Irish, trans. by Mary Byrne, 1905)

*World Premiere ACDA Southern Division Conference 2014

arr. James Stevens

choral adaptation, Leslie J. Blackwell

Nearer My God to Thee

Terry Pendleton and Alex Trull, soloists

Nearer my God, to thee, nearer to thee.
E'en though it be a cross, that raiseth me.
There let the way appear, steps unto heav'n.
All that thou sendest me, in mercy giv'n.
Still all my song shall be nearer my God to thee.

(Sarah F. Adams, 1841, and ancient Latin text)

A Dream Within a Dream

Take this kiss upon the brow!
And, in parting from you now,
Thus much let me avow:
You are not wrong, who deem that my days have been a dream;
Yet if hope has flown away.
In a night, or in a day,
In a vision, or in none,
Is it therefore the less gone?
All that we see or seem
Is but a dream within a dream.

I stand amid the roar
Of a surf tormented shore,
And I hold within my hand
Grains of the golden sand
How few! yet how they creep
Through my fingers to the deep,
While I weep- while I weep!
O God! can I not save
One from the pitiless wave?
Is all that we see or seem
But a dream within a dream?

CLEMENT JANEQUIN (1485-1558)

Le chant des oyseaux

Reveillez vous, cueurs endormis
Le dieu d'amour vous sonne.
A ce premier jour de may,
Oyseaulx feront merveillez,
Pour vous mettre hors d'esmay
Destoupez vos oreilles.
Et farirariron
Vous serez tous en ioye mis,
Car la saison est bonne.

Vous orrez, à mon advis,
Une dulce musique
Que fera le roy mauvis
D'une voix autentique.
Ty, ty, pyty.
Le petit sansonnet de Paris,
Le petit mignon: (q'est là bas?)
Passe villain. Sainte tête Dieu,
Il est temps d'aller boire)

Awake, sleepy hearts,
The god of love calls you.
On this first day of May,
The birds will make you marvel.
To lift yourself from dismay,
Unclog your ears.
And fa la la la la
You will be moved to joy,
For the season is good.

You will hear, I advise you,
A sweet music
That the royal blackbird will sing
In a pure voice.
Ti, ti, pi-ti
The little starling of Paris,
The little thing (who's there?)
Pass, knave. By the holy head of God
It is time to go drinking)

Saige, courtoys et bien apris.
Au sermon, ma maistresse.
Sus madame à la messe.
A saint Trotin voir saint Robin
Le doux musequin.

Rire et gaudir c'es mon devis,
Chacun s'i habandonne.
Rossignol du boys ioly,
A qui le voix resonne,
Pour vous mettre hors d'ennuy
Vostre gorge iargonne:
Frian, frian, frian
Fuez, regrez, pleurs et souci,
Car la saison l'ordonne.

Ariere maistre coucou,
Sortez de no chapitre.
Chacun vous donne au bibou,
Car vous n'estes q'un traistre.
Cocou, cocou
Par traison en chacun nid,
Pondez sans qu'on vous sonne.

Reveillez vous, cueurs endormis,
Le dieu d'amours vous sonne.

Wise, courteous, and well versed
Go to the sermon, my mistress
Get thee to mass, madame
To Tortin, show yourself
And sweet looks

To laugh and rejoice is my device,
Each with abandon.
Nightingale of the pretty woods,
Whose voice resounds,
So you don't become bored,
Your throat jabbars away:
Frian, frian
Flee, regrets, tears and worries,
For the season commands it.

Turn around, master cuckoo
Get out of our company.
Each of us gives you a 'bye-bye'
For you are nothing but a traitor.
Cuckoo, cuckoo
Treacherously in others' nests,
You lay without being called.

Awake, sleepy hearts,
The god of love is calling you.

Northern Lights

Joseph McBrayer, tenor

It was night, and I had gone on deck several times.

Iceberg was silent; I too was silent.

It was true dark and cold.

At nine o'clock I was below in my cabin,

when the captain hailed me with the words:

"Come above, Hall, come above at once, Hall!

The world is on fire!"

I knew his meaning, and quick as thought, I rushed to the companion stairs.

In a moment I reached the deck, and as the cabin door swung open, a dazzling light, overpowering light burst upon my startled senses!

Oh, the whole sky was one glowing mass of colored flames, so mighty, so brave!

Like a pathway of light the northern lights seemed to draw us into the sky.

Yes, it was harp-music, wild storming in the darkness;

the strings trembled and sparkled in the glow of the flames like a shower of fiery darts.

A fiery crown of auroral light cast a warm glow across the arctic ice.

Like a pathway of light the northern lights seemed to draw us into the sky.

Again at times it was like softly playing, gently rocking, silvery waves, on which dreams travel into unknown worlds.

AND CHAMBER SINGERS

MACK WILBERG (b. 1955)

Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing

Come, Thou Fount of every blessing,
Tune my heart to sing Thy grace;
Streams of mercy, never ceasing,
Call for songs of loudest praise.
Teach me some melodious sonnet,
Sung by flaming tongues above.
Praise the mount! I'm fixed upon it,
Mount of Thy redeeming love.

Here I raise my Ebenezer;
Hither by Thy help I'm come;
And I hope, by Thy good pleasure,
Safely to arrive at home.
Prone to wander, Lord, I feel it,
Prone to leave the God I love;
Here's my heart, O take and seal it;
Seal it for Thy courts above.

Jesus sought me when a stranger,
Wandering from the fold of God;
He, to rescue me from danger,
Interposed His precious blood.
Prone to wander, Lord, I feel it,
Prone to leave the God I love;
Here's my heart, O take and seal it;
Seal it for Thy courts above.

O to grace how great a debtor
Daily I'm constrained to be!
Let Thy goodness, like a fetter,
Bind my wandering heart to Thee:
Prone to wander, Lord, I feel it,
Prone to leave the God I love;
Here's my heart, O take and seal it;
Seal it for Thy courts above.

Program Notes

Laudate Dominum

GIUSEPPE OTTAVIO PITONI

Pitoni was an organist and composer from Perugia, Italy. He became one of the leading musicians in Rome during the late Baroque era. His contributions to liturgical music in Rome were profound as composer, organist, maestro di capella, writer on music theory and history, and as Esaminatori dei Maestri for the Academy of St. Cecilia. He was extremely prolific, with 325 masses, 800 Psalm settings and 235 motets. He prepared a complete year of music for St. Peter's Cathedral, with settings for the masses and offices of every Sunday and Holy day.

Two Eastern Pictures

GUSTAV HOLST

Gustav Holst was an English composer, arranger, and teacher. He wrote across a wide range of genres with a distinct compositional style that reflected influences from English folksong revival to Indian raga. His interest in Indian mythology became musically evident in the opera Sita composed between 1901-1906. In 1911, the publication of Rig Veda Hymns and Two Eastern Pictures brought much attention to Holst. These works have been described as pictorial rather than religious with a sacred quality that clearly touched the composer's imagination.

Reconciliation

STEPHEN CHATMAN

Stephen Chatman's Reconciliation uses text from Walt Whitman's Drum Taps, which focuses on the unity of all people, even those fighting against each other. The text poignantly notes that war creates personal losses for everyone. The flugelhorn is featured as a solo voice heard in the distance creating a soft and haunting melody.

Be Thou My Vision

MICHAEL ENGELHARDT

Apologies to those who prefer to hear sweet, sentimental, or introspective arrangements of this time-honored hymn. This arrangement begins with a burst of joy and an off-kilter dance in 7/8 meter. We plumb to the depths in the middle verse, which is something, like a warrior's prayer on the eve of battle. Then it rises up with epic confidence to a powerful conclusion.

The overall contour of the arrangement is a metaphor for how we approach endeavors in life. We charge into a new endeavor brimming with bright optimism. But inevitably, at some point, we are confronted with our own limitations, weaknesses, failings, and mortality. It is then that we look deep inside and to the highest of heights for our help. Only after plumbing the depths of our souls, and perhaps experiencing what the psalmist calls "the valley of the shadow of death" can we arise with new strength, real strength. And also with a renewed aim that is higher and somehow deeper than before.

- Michael Engelhardt

Kyrie

from Missa in Angustiis

JOSEPH HAYDN

Joseph Haydn helped to create Viennese Classicism and introduced elements of the coming Romantic period. This is best seen in his masses after the Josephinian reforms were lifted. Missa in Angustiis, "Mass in time of affliction" is also known as the Nelsonmesse or Lord Nelson Mass (1798). Written in dark D minor (it is Haydn's only extant Mass in a minor key), the work displays an intensity reminiscent of Haydn's Sturm und Drang works partnered with the technical brilliance of the London symphonies. Haydn wrote 12 masses in two major periods of his life. The Nelsonmesse is from the second period of writing after living in London and writing his famous "London Symphonies". There is a direct lineage to the massive scale of the Masses in the latter period, which are reminiscent of a full symphonic form of Sonata Allegro with an exposition, development, recapitulation, and coda. The opening forgoes the Adagio introduction so common in the symphonies and several other Masses and launches directly into the Allegro tempo with a fierceness well meriting the choral invocation, "Kyrie eleison" ("Lord have mercy"). Indeed this opening movement is filled with a sense of desperation: the growing intensity of the descending chromatics "sighs" in the second Kyrie culminates with the return of the original theme, made more heart wrenching by the soprano soloist's florid cries.

JULIE MITCHELL

poet Edgar Allan Poe

Edgar Allan Poe's "A Dream Within a Dream" was published in 1849 in a periodical titled Flag of Our Union. The poem displays the slipping of time and memories and how one cannot simply hold on to each thing in life, and the narrator questions what is real versus dream. While composing the piece, Julie Mitchell frequently used text-painting, making sure that the music conveyed the swelling and crashing of waves and the subtle quietness of memories disappearing. There also is a great sense of capturing the darkness that is often felt when reading any of Poe's works.

Le chant des oyseaux

CLÉMENT JANEQUIN

Clément Janequin was a French composer of the Renaissance period; known almost exclusively for his secular works. Janequin is the most famous for the program chanson, a composition in which descriptive devices are used in abundance. Les Chant des oyseaux imitates the sounds produced by different birds which are characterized by street sounds, bird calls and trills, repeated short notes, repetitive patterns, with fast articulate rhythms. Attributes of Janequin's style illustrated by this work include the use of many rapid repeated notes to effect an excited declamatory style, often occurring in conjunction with static harmony, phrases that are imitative with clear sections.

Cik Naksnī (nas) pret ziemeļi redzēju Kāvus karojam =
How to sleep (ing) against northern seen kavi = fighting karo kavi pie debesu vedīs karus mūs zemē = fighting kavi at heavenly (sky) lead (to) wars us down

Kāvi are a mythological manifestation of the Arctic Lights, sometimes also called the Northern Lights. In olden times, people believed they were the restless spirits of fallen warriors, still engaged in great battles in the sky. Located far enough from the North, people of Latvia saw the Northern Lights quite rarely: in the northern sky, low on horizon and mostly in faint green color. If they witnessed the lights in red color, the activity of the Northern Lights had to be extremely strong that night; in those nights the picture was more impressive because the Northern Lights were visible higher in the sky. Therefore ancient people of Latvia tied the picture to fighting, a battle in the sky and hoped that the war will not reach their land. Having read the journals written by both Charles Francis Hall and Fridtjof Nansen, 19th century Arctic explorers, I was taken by the beauty with which they described the Northern Lights they had witnessed almost every night. And when in December of 2012 being beyond the Polar Circle in Northern Norway I myself experienced significant displays of Aurora Borealis, a music started to arise in me echoing Hall's and Nansen's testimonies and the ancient Latvian folk song: Whenever at night, far in the north I saw the kāvi soldiers (Northern Lights) having their battle, I was afraid, perhaps they might bring a war to my land, too. From the journals of Arctic explorers Charles Francis Hall (1821-1871) and Fridtjof Nansen (1861-1930).
