Kylah Pollard was the 2017 Undergraduate Research Award winner for her essay, "Prevalence and Incidence of Health Risk Factors among Adolescent Girls." The award was presented by Dr. David Evans, dean of library services, to Pollard at the Twenty-Second Annual KSU Symposium of Student Scholars on April 20, 2017. This award is given annually to a student "demonstrating successful navigation of library resources for undergraduate research." The prize is $500 and the winner's essay is published in the Kennesaw Journal of Undergraduate Research.
